Reference for Sebastian Teo Popa

Sebastian Teo Popa is a student of mine in at the program for BA in Digital Concept development at Lillebaelt Academy, University of Applied Sciences.

The program equals 90 ECTS point and aims at giving the students competences within many aspects of Digital Concept Development such as design, project management, cross media production and prototyping.

I know Sebastian to be a dedicated student, who not only turned up for all my classes but also contributed with enthusiasm to discussions and exercises in class. He quickly understands the subjects presented to him – and understands how to turn them into the practice of creating digital concepts for various media.

One area where I found Sebastian to be talented is in the field of understanding how to design for specific target groups. He presented this talent in the many small and larger projects he created during the education. He also has a talent for transitioning a specific academic argumentation through text.

Also a large part of the curriculum of BA of Digital Concept Development at Lillebaelt Academy is training presentation technique. Almost every class ends up with a presentation in front of the class – and this is an area where Sebastian is proficient at. He shows a natural ease at presenting.

I highly recommend him.
